TO THE WEST! TO THE WEST!

Before making your arrangements to follow the advice of the "thousands who have already gone," it would be well to consider what has been done to make the journey to your "Homes in the West" as pleasant and free from danger as human skill and foresight can accomplish.

By consolidation and construction, a road has been put into operation on the shortest possible line from Nashville, Tenn., to St. Louis, "the future great City of the world." This line, the has, during the past year, earned an enviable reputation by its smooth track, prompt time, sure connections, and the magnificence of its passenger equipment. Its trains are made up of new and commodious day cars, provided with the celebrated Miller coupler and platform, and the Westinghouse air-brake.

It is positively the only line running Pullman Palace Drawing-Room Sleeping Cars through without change from Nashville to St. Louis. No other line pretends to offer such advantages, either in distance, time, or equipment. Why, then, journey by circuitous routes? Do not be induced to purchase tickets to St. Louis or the West by any other line, remember that is the shortest, cheapest, quickest, best and only line under one management from Nashville to St. Louis, and is from 60 to 200 miles the shortest to St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Denver, California, Texas, and all western points. It is also the "Chicago Shortest Line," via Evansville.

You can secure the cheapest rates for yourselves and your movables on application, in person or by letter, to CHARLES McCABE, Southern Passenger Agent, near College street Depot, Nashville, Tenn., or to the undersigned.

General Ticket Agent, St. Louis.

The Evening Post.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

Monday, October 6th, 1873.

A Small Matter.

The Post claims to act with perfect fairness toward its opponents. In our discussions we have always taken especial pains to publish extracts that would give their entire argument. In our editorial columns we publish nothing without due credit, and, in short, all short items or local hits appearing as original are original with the Post. Not so our nightly glean of State news.—That, as its name imports, is made up from the news of the State papers, mostly from their local columns, and we do not consider it pilfering to publish them, especially as we generally rewrite them, without giving credit. The Sentinel has more words to say on this subject, and we have been amused at its wrath and scolding over items taken from its columns. Not articles, but items. To illustrate, the Sentinel publishes the following:

"Rev. Dr. Hooper, aged 81 years of age, occupied the pulpit in the Presbyterian church and preached an edifying sermon last Sunday.—Greensboro' Patriot."

Now, suppose the Sentinel had said: Rev. Dr. Hooper, aged 81 years of age, preached an edifying sermon in the Presbyterian church in Greensboro' last Sunday. Would that have been pilfering? The Sentinel thinks it would. We repeat, we think this a very small matter, and now inform all our exchanges that they are welcome to use any of our items, as they choose. Publish them as original, if they want to, and we will not object. We know something of the labor to collect them, and we also know that every editor works hard. Anything we can do to lighten the burden of our brethren, we will cheerfully do, and they are welcome to use everything we publish, at all times and on all occasions. When we send them the Post it becomes their property. A natural pride would prevent an editor of any standing from publishing articles from one who have not that pride, they can publish the sound doctrines emanating from the Post. We do not attach this criticism to those who glean for their State news. This, as its name implies, is made up from exchanges, and we do not care whether our name appears at the bottom of every little item or not.

An attempt will indubitably be made to change the government of France, either by the action of the Assembly or arms. It is not unlikely that the latter will be called in to support the first, and internal strife, which so recently has been quenched, again prevail.

The question may be asked, where do the Orleans and Bourbon princes obtain money to carry on these enterprises against the freedom of nations? They get it from the Kings who reign. The spirit which confederated the monarchs of Europe to secure the downfall of Napoleon and the extinction of popular liberty, is perhaps as alert now as in the early part of the century. Kings see in the grand movements which are taking place in the West of Europe, the waves of a tide which must, sooner or later, sweep them and their thrones out of existence, and the cause of one thus becomes the cause of all.

This aggressive attitude of Germany towards France is intensified by the bitterness entailed by the late war. Under the government of the ante-revolutionary Bourbons, the power of France was the element of disturbance which agitated the entire continent; but the success of Germany in two recent wars has aroused visions of conquest, which will not be dissipated till she, in her turn, meets a master. It is from German intrigue and influence that Republicanism has most to dread, for if France yields to a monarchy Spain will soon follow.

When the yearning which has been shown by France for eighty years for a Republic, which, though, was partially forgotten in the splendor of the first empire, or awed into submission by force in the second, is still powerful, it cannot be supposed that the real sentiment of the country inclines to a monarchy. And Americans cannot refuse to wish success to those efforts which have for their object the establishment of the political rights of all.

—The Pope, in an address to a delegation of three hundred of the faithful, used the following words: "Confusion has entered the enemy's camp. They strive to induce me to leave Rome, but I never will."

EDITORIAL BUDGET.

—The brig Florence, from Doboy, lumber laden, was picked up abandoned and carried to Port Royal, S. C. The schooner D. F. Keeling, from Savannah for Baltimore, was abandoned off Martin's Industry.

—A special dispatch to the Washington Republican, from Philadelphia, dated the 3d instant, says: Your correspondent obtained to-night from the highest sources a brief of an elaborate deed of trust to be filed for record in this county on Monday and Tuesday of next week, in which Jay Cooke and his partners in this and other cities convey all of their property to Mr. Rollins, president of the National Life Insurance Company of this city, and late United States commissioner of internal revenue. This trust, consisting of all of the firm's property and private estates, including the wives' dower-right of the members of the houses of Jay Cooke & Co. is to be administered under the supervision of Mr. Rollins and a Philadelphia committee of creditors for the benefit of all creditors of the firm, and as each five per cent. is realized out of the assets it will be distributed. This arrangement is expected to be so advantageous that the creditors will accede to it, and by prudent management the Cookes hope to pay dollar for dollar, and have a large surplus for themselves. This measure is adopted to prevent the estate from being settled in a bankrupt court, and hence without the manipulations of the debtors in realizing the assets. They claim that the creditors will get more under this trust scheme than they would under the bankrupt act, which permits the discharge of the bankrupts after they have paid fifty per cent. of their debts.

—Dispatches from Paris, on Friday, says that the city has been full of conflicting rumors to-day in regard to the political situation. The report which gained the greatest excitement was one stating that the permanent committee of the Assembly would order that body to meet on the 13th instant, and that the Government officials now absent from Versailles had been ordered to proceed there immediately, but a dispatch from official sources in Versailles pronounces it untrue. The Republicans are redoubting their efforts to thwart the designs of the Monarchists. Theirs, Duffrie, Lay, and Pierce hold a conference next week. All sections of the Left are united, the Extremists promising to support the Government. Moderates. The Republican journals of every shade of opinion support all candidates for the Assembly who pledge themselves to vote for the Republic without regard to their antecedents. Petitions are in circulation addressed to the wavering Deputies, and urging them to support the Republic. M. de Remusat, at the request of ex-President Thiers, has consented to contest the election in the Department of Garonne against the candidate of the monarchists. The programme of the Conservatives, on the meeting of the Assembly, will be the restoration of royalty, constitutional and parliamentary government. The Count de Chambord will issue a manifesto next week.

As an almost invariable rule, we are opposed to "Press Associations," "Editorial Conventions," and other similar organizations, the ostensible objects of which are the moral improvement and elevation of the profession of journalism, but the practical results of which generally develop themselves in dead-end or dead-beat excursions or entertainments. The members of no other profession or class of business men indulge themselves at the expense of the public in such privileges, or, more properly speaking, such outrages on public decency and abuse of public courtesy. It is true that journalists are supposed to be able to make full return for these privileges, in the way of puffing and personal mention, but it is also true that in making such full return they are apt to be betrayed into fulsome and indiscriminate praise of unworthy objects. For these reasons, and being prompted by a desire to add to the independence and true usefulness of the profession, we set our face resolutely against the pernicious customs to which we refer. The North Carolina Press Association, however, has entered upon a novel career, which, while it is not altogether free from objectionable features, may be productive of commendable results. The next meeting of this association will be held at Raleigh on the 16th instant, when reports from committees appointed at a previous meeting are to be submitted for discussion. Those reports embrace investigation into questions of immigration and the publication of legal advertisements. The discussion of the important topics, it will be acknowledged, is exceedingly proper, when it is remembered that the participants will be gentlemen who seek information regarding them, and upon whose familiarity with them the public relies for intelligent instruction. It is to be hoped that the meeting will not be diverted from the pronounced and commendable intention with which it has been called.—Washington Republican.

PERSONAL.—Captain John C. Brain, President of the Southern Artificial Stone Company, is visiting our city in the interests of his Company. He is prepared to contract with our citizens for the Schillinger Artificial Stone Pavement at New York prices; 30 cents per square foot by the thousand feet, and 85 cents less than one thousand feet. This Stone is as durable as the best Northern granite. The Company will guarantee all the work they do for twenty years, and agree to keep the same in order.
PATRONAGE THAT PAYS.—That noble institution, the Public Library of Kentucky, has permanently established its prosperity by the three gift concerts it has already given under its charter. It now boasts of a building that cost $210,000, with a library of over fifty thousand volumes and a magnificent cabinet. The fourth grand gift concert for its further endowment will take place December 3d, and at this concert $100,500,000 cash is distributed to the ticket holders, the highest prize being $250,000, and scaling down to prizes of $50, which is the smallest sum given. As there is a prize to every fifth ticket, it is easy to see that the patronage of this concert is a patronage that pays, there being great chances of great gains, and only small chances of small losses.—Hon. THOS. E. BRAMLETTE, late Governor of Kentucky, is the manager, and tickets and information may be obtained by addressing him, at Public Library Building, Louisville, Ky.
THE GREAT EASTERN CIRCUS.—There was an immense throng at the circus last night, but the accommodations of the mammoth pavilion are so excellent that all were comfortably seated. Everything is on a colossal scale. There are two rings, both in full view of the whole audience, and the performance in each one would constitute a splendid exhibition in itself. There has been no circus on the Belair lot for many years that contained so many trained horses. Two of the most highly educated ponies are managed by ladies, who put them through their wonderful tricks with a dexterity that is truly marvellous. The trapezes performance is the great "sensation" of the entertainment. The menagerie is divided into three sections, each of which occupies a pavilion. By this arrangement the animals can be seen at leisure, and there is never so great a crowd around the cages as to obstruct the view.—Baltimore American.
The Great Eastern, it will be remembered, gives three exhibitions in Wilmington, on Wednesday, 15th October.

THE TOWN CRIER.
— Warm.
— Gold is 109 1/2.
— Pave the streets.
— Wyman Wednesday.
— State Fair next week.
— Skiff & Gaylord to-night!
— Currency as scarce as ever.
— Churches well filled yesterday.
— Delightful moonlight last night.
— How about the Cape Fear Agricultural Association?
— Mosquitoes were thicker than usual last night—but wherefore?
— A panic has taken place among the young folks to-day, as holidays are ended.
— What is the use of publishing the Insurance Age, when this is an age of assurance?
— The Concert for the Oxford Orphan Asylum, on the 22d, promises to be a grand affair.
— Mrs. Strock has removed her millinery establishment to the Evans' block, on Princess street.
— "Have you got settled yet?" is now the conundrum of the hour, but it is generally answered "no."
FAIRBANKS' SCALES.—Next to their merit, the most substantial endorsement of Fairbanks' scales is their use as the standard weight in cases tried before courts. Besides their accuracy, their adaptation to the standards of all nations makes them the universal scale, and they are as staple an article of export as flour or sewing machines. The Fairbanks Works in St. Johnsbury, Vt., are among the most interesting of all the manufacturing in the country. Sixty thousand scales, from the most sensitive balance for druggists to the gigantic railway, are sent out annually to do their part in the commerce of almost every city and town on the globe.—N. Y. Sun, September 16th, 1873.
THE CHURCHES.—Yesterday being clear and pleasant, our Churches were well attended. As usual, the services in St. James' were conducted by Dr. Watson, and those at St. John's by Rev. Mr. Patterson. The Holy Eucharist was celebrated in St. James' and St. John's Churches, and many partook of it. Mr. Burr preached at the Second Presbyterian; Mr. Bernheim at the Lutheran; Rev. M. V. Sherrell at Front Street Methodist. Dr. Plumer preached at the First Baptist Church in the morning, and in the Presbyterian Lecture Room in the evening. Rev. Father Gross served at St. Thomas' Church.—Mr. Brady being out of town, St. Mark's was closed. Rev. Mr. Ambler preached morning and evening at St. Paul's.
THE SCHILLINGER ARTIFICIAL STONE.—The following, which we take from the Daily (N. Y.) Express speaks for it itself:
J. J. Schillinger, of 247 Broadway, made a display of his artificial stone, in a thoroughly business-like and practical manner. This very valuable and durable composition of Portland cement and sand, which year by year is gaining ground among builders and proving itself equal to some natural stone, and superior to most, is largely manufactured by Mr. Schillinger, at his works, 93d street, between Second and Third avenues. In March last the walks in front of the exhibition building at Vienna were laid, to the extent of four hundred square feet, with this artificial stone pavement, thereby giving thousands of pedestrians the opportunity of making an impression on it, if it were possible. In the building itself was exhibited a stone block about two feet long, which has been in the yard at the works through two winters, and in fact belonged to some stone manufactured for six house fronts. This artificial stone is not affected either by heat or cold. The frosts of winter have no effect upon it, for the block forwarded to the Exhibition was exposed to the ordeal of last winter, and we all know how dreadfully severe and keen the frost was. For sidewalks it is admirable, and especially in frosty weather granite gets smooth and slippery, and is dangerous unless frequently cut in small drills; but the sand in the composition of the artificial stone make a gritty surface which gives a feeling of confidence to pedestrians. There is some of it laid at the entrance of our City Hall, and it wears well in comparison with the blue stone. As regards heat we must refer our readers to Chicago. At the great conflagration in that city, when ordinary stone and iron succumbed to the conquering element, the artificial stone could still be found intact. In Mr. Schillinger's office we saw a piece of what we may call flag stone, which had been laid down at his City Hall Park, around the fountain, and was taken up on account of a cutting made for the sewer. The surface was smooth and even as when first laid down, and when the fragment was struck it gave out the clear, true ring of good metal. Mr. Schillinger has been awarded the Diploma of Honor by the Commissioners at Vienna as a recognition of the merits of his artificial stone. Orders can be left at the Purcell House where Capt. J. C. Brain, President of the Company, is a guest.
The Great Eastern Circus, with all its show and glitter and fun set all Raleigh crazy, and the all-important duty of the hour there was to see the Circus.

Saturday Night Sketches.
There are times in all experience when even the atmosphere, though not oppressive, seems to denote a perfect rest. Times when the ordinary events of life all seem to blend so harmoniously, that like an unseen tide, the hours glide almost unnoticed, and, as the world goes, uneventful. To-night is an example of such a scene. Though the crowds are no less, the wonderful stillness of Nature seems to check much of the boisterous mirth to the great relief of Market street merchants, but not as satisfactory to the reporter. The river, "like a shield of steel," mirrors the taper masts and stately hulls of many a vessel on its bosom, beautiful but silent, and even the dazzling pathway of the moon marked upon the silent waters is spread out in one unbroken sheen, with not a ripple to disturb its placid grandeur. Though silent, everything seems beautiful, and even the huge circus bills, with impossible postures and gigantic animals, dashing steeds and beautiful women, are not without admirers. One little chap from the country attracts our attention. Seated on the curbstone, gazing with the delight that only a boy can experience, he rubs his hands with glee as he exclaims, "Oh, golly! ain't it nice? It don't cost a cent, an' I's gwang to sit right hea' and look at dese pictures 'til I'm jist chock full."
The summer fruits are nearly all gone. To be sure there is one speculator with a cart load of small water melons which he is working off slowly at 25 cents each, but there is but little demand.—He won't even warrant them to be "free from chills," and in answer to an interrogatory, exclaims rather testily, "I don't know nothin' about chills in these 'yer melons, I aint never tried 'em." But he sells them all after awhile and we hope the money will do him some good, for the melons certainly will not benefit the purchasers much. Instead of long lines of carts loaded with nature's bountiful fruits, we see but few, comparatively, and they are mostly filled with quantities of pork, and interminable links of sausages and other mysterious combinations made from pork, the manufacture whereof is only known to a few. Though grapes are still in market, their acme of glory seems to have departed, but they are still lucious and always welcome. A few Saturday nights more and we will chronicle their departure for the season, and it will be a sorrowful record. Already have we noted that the fickle rice bird has disappeared, to be supplanted by the foolish coot, but even they are scarce and only to be found at some of the city restaurants.
The fish market has been vacant for several days, owing to the easterly winds, and to-night many are anxiously gazing about for their accustomed "strings," but they cannot be found. Salt mullets only in market, and even New River oysters all disappeared before dark, so that "bivalvular happiness" is lost to many. At the lower end of the market house is a dealer in Sound oysters known as "Raccoons." He has improvised a restaurant out of a long board and a quantity of tin plates. A large crowd of colored men are in attendance, and upon the production of five cents, a tin plate of oysters, the ever shifting bottle of pepper sauce, and a little wooden prong to do fork duty, are handed to him. The bivalves quickly disappear, and if he has not another five cent piece, he retires only to see his place instantly filled by a luckier customer. Here there is mirth and careless laughter, and though the forms are constantly changing, the scene remains about the same for hours, or until the supply of "raccoons" is exhausted.
But all scenes, whether of pleasure or pain, must pass away to give room to new ones upon life's canvass, and the lovely moon smiles alike upon the cart drivers and the laborers as they wind their way to their respective homes, so bright and beautiful, that even crime hides its hideous form and the city is quietly locked in as perfect a rest, as is possible among frail humanity.
MR. JUNIUS D. GARDNER.—This good and honored citizen died last night at half-past eleven o'clock, in the 78th year of his age. After months of protracted sickness, brought on by old age, God relieved him of his sufferings, and his spirit wafted its way to the home prepared for those who in this life served their Maker. Mr. Gardner was connected with the Cape Fear Bank in this city for some fifty-five years, serving at its desks until its suspension at the close of the war. He filled many positions of honor among our people, standing deservedly high for his purity and integrity. He was a member of the Front Street Methodist Church for many years and has now entered into his rest. One by one our old citizens, standing as the connecting link between the present and the past, depart from among us, and the places which knew them, will know them no more forever.
Spirit of the press—A glass of cider.

STATE ITEMS.
The Sentinel "goes for" the Post again, and we leave it for our Senior to say back.
Raleigh brags on its unusual quiet under a pressure of five thousand strangers there to see the Circus.
The Raleigh papers speak very favorably of the Skiff & Gaylord Minstrels who perform here to-night.
A little son of J. P. Silliman, living near Salisbury, fell from a barn on the prongs of a pitchfork one of which passed through his heart, killing him instantly.
Because Charlotte has gas again, the local of the Observer thinks it unnecessary to say that his cup of happiness is quite full. Please keep the young man in Charlotte.
The new schooner in course of construction at the ship-yard of Messrs. Wade & Howard, in New-Berne, is fast nearing completion, and will soon be ready to launch.
To the people of Henderson, N. C., Haight's Circus was the most remarkable and attractive show ever presented to them. Over ten thousand persons applied for tickets.
Robeson County Superior Court convenes to-day at Lumberton, Judge Clark presiding, and Onslow Superior Court also meets to-day at Jacksonville, Judge Russell presiding.
In view of the fact that there has been no public meeting called by the authorities or otherwise in the city of Raleigh for the purpose of raising contributions for the Shreveport sufferers, the News thinks that its citizens are sending forward their contributions privately.
The Raleigh News says the trains of Thursday evening were laden down with people from North, South, East and West, to see the animals of the Great Eastern Circus. Johnston, Orange, Moore and Chatham were largely represented.
Ramsey, the temperance blower, while on his lecturing tour through the State, will canvass for the State Agricultural Journal. The Post wishes friend Ramsey great success in both branches of the business which he has in hand.
The man Owens, who murdered Mr. John W. Check, between Dallas and Shelby, has not yet been captured.—Owens killed Check by stabbing him to the heart, after which he dragged him into the woods. It was one of the most deliberate and devilish deeds ever heard of.
The Sentinel says the cotton business on Friday was unusually brisk, and for about four hours the street in front of Exchange Place was blockaded with cotton and drays, sellers and buyers. One hundred and fifty bales were sold at 15 cents, the market closing firm at those figures.
The bears are still troublesome in the lower part of Craven county as well as in the county of Pamlico. They not only devour the corn, but are making way with the live stock. Mr. Holton, a farmer in Pamlico near the line of Craven county, lost six valuable hogs by the bears, and they were continually committing depredations upon the farms in his vicinity.
About a week ago the Battleboro Advertiser, we think it was, published Sax's beautiful ballad "Justine, you love me not!" but strangely substituted the letters I for J and u for n in the word Justine, thereby making it Instie instead of Justine. This is repeated every time the word is used in the piece, greatly marring its beauty. Friend Pool of the Newbern Journal of Commerce in his last issue falls into the same error. Follow cop. brothers.
There are ninety-three orphan children at the Oxford Orphan Asylum, and as the winter is fast approaching, and the unfortunate little ones need many things to add to their comfort and conduce to their welfare, and as every one who chooses is permitted to participate in the privilege and duty of contributing to the support of the orphans, the Post hopes that its readers will bear these facts in mind and do something at once, as Mr. Cohen is greatly in need of funds.
Troy, N. Y., has a baby with four teeth in its nose. That child was cut out for a reporter. Think of the amount of nosing around a man could do with such a flinty organ as that!
An Iowa man built himself a $10,000 barn and sat down in it to have a smoke and contemplate the structure. He liked it exceedingly well, and will at once build another on the same site, having obtained his insurance.
A man recently knocked down an elephant. He was an auctioneer.
